Rules for the Harvard-Princeton Game, PRINCITON, Oct. 24.—Captains Lea and Brewer have at last come to a definite agreement with reference to the rules to govern the Princeton-Harvard game. Late this evening Manager Milibank gave out this official statement:

The rules as they now stand are similar to the Yale-Princeton rules with the exception that in addition to the four ordinary backs, two other men are allowed behind the line, these being either the tackles or ends in any formation, provided they are not more than five yards behind the rush line. No man, however, is allowed to start before the ball is put in play. In case of a free catch, the man making the catch is not allowed to run with the ball or pass it unless he first touches it to the ground. If he does not fun with the ball, he may have the option of a first down upon the spot at which the ball is caught, or he can kick the ball, the opposing side not being permitted to line up within ten yards of the ball.—New York Sun. ROOSEVELT SOUNDS THE FIRST GUN FOR TOM REED.

Hard to Tell Who Will be the Strong Candidate When the Democratic Convention Assembles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.-Special. Representative Williams, of Mississippi, has come to Washington for the winter. He is one of the first of the Southern Congressmen to arrive. Speaking of pirants for the presidential nomination, is far ahead of the others, and the ophimself, when Speaker of the next House himself, when Speaker of the next House, should secure for him the nomination. If the country is to have a Republican President, I would rather see Reed elected than any other man. At heart, he is a fair and honest-mind citizen. He has assumed at extreme position regarding many public questions for the sake of effect, but he is too intelligent to believe in the extreme views of his parry. Mr. Whilams is convinced that Mr. Cleveland is not a candidate for a third term. He says, however, that the sturation in the Democratic parry is such, that it is impossible to predict who will be the strong candidates when the convention assembles.

The first gun in the Reed campaign was fired at flooton last night when Police Commissioner Reoseveit, of New York nominated the man frem Maine, at a banquet of the Republican leaders of Massachusetts.

The fact that Governor Morton, of New York, is looming up as a formitable can-didate is affecting Mr. Reed's chances to a certain extent, and the speech of Mr Roosevelt last night is thought to signif-an Intention upon the part of the Ree-managers to make a bid for the New York delegation against Morton him-self.

The Light-House Board Light.

The Light-House Board has finally decided that the establishment of a light-house on outer Diamond Shoal, off Cape Hatteras, is practicable, and will shortly advertise for materials, with which the Government will undertake the somewhat doubtful experiment without asking private concerns to bid on the project. It he station is ever completed it will represent the most difficult piece of engineering work the service has yet encountered and will stand as the most conspicuous light-house in the world. For years the leading engineers of the army have been grappling with the problem, and numerous plans have been devised looking to the erection of a station on the shoal, but the first attempt made to carry them out proved a failure, and since then the light-keepers and materials to main-tain the light will be built on the interior of the skeleton to a distance of 163 feet above the water.

The original design for the light was for

The original design for the light was for a solid masorry structure somewhat on the order of the famous Minott's Ledge light to the entrance of Boston harbor, erected from a distance of possibly 15 feet below the bottom to a beight of 199 feet above high water, but owing to the impracticability of constructing a calsson sufficiently strong to resist the waves, and the great doubt regarding the ability of this design when completed to stand the seas and wind, this plan had been abandoned in favor of the skeleton structure, which offers but little surface to either wind or waves. But even the little target afforded the waves to attack in a screwpile light, it is almost certain that a structure will have to be erected of unusual strength to withstand them.

structure will have to be erocted of unusual strength to withstand them.

After one year's experience with the Halteras winds and waves, a temporary structure, consisting of four piles driven down several feet in the bottom, showed signs of having been to badly used and twisted that one of the naval secretaries of the light-house has expressed the opinion that no light-station can be erected there which will stand. The cost of the light when completed is estimated at $1,20,000, and of this sum there is now available $400,000. Diamond Shoal projects into the sea seven miles off Hatteras, and is covered with from six to twenty feet of water. It is marked only now by the Hatterus light, standing on the shore seven miles from the outer edge, and not discernible in hazy or foggy weather. The proposed light will be on the extreme edge, seven miles from the nearest shore, end visible twenty-three nautical miles. The latest fog apparatus will be provided, and there will be accommodations for three keepers. It will probably take two years to complete the project from the date work begins.

May Settle the School Question.
WINNIPEG, MAN., Oct. 24.—Archbishoo
Lannevin, representing the Catholic party in Manitoba, has made a proposal in regard to the parochial school difficulty that may be accepted by the Manitoba Government, and further hostilities between Catholies and Protestants avoided.

The Archbishop's proposal is simply that Catholies be not taxed for the support of public schools, but that they be allowed to establish their own parochial schools and pay the total cost of maintenance. The Catholies will not ask a dollar of public funds for their schools if relieved of the tax for public schools. All the Archbishop asks the government to do is to supply the machinery for collecting Catholic taxes.

Premier Greenway is said to regard the proposition favorably, and his government, weary of the interminable warfare, may accept it.

Reaches New York After a Good Run From

Hampton Roads The second-class battle-ship Texas arrived in port last night, and anchored off Tompkinsville, S. I. She comes from the Norfolk navy-yard, where she was built. She is to go into dry-tock at the Brooklyn navy-yard, the Norfolk drydock, in which she had been previously docked, having been found inadequate to receive her, after she had been weighted receive her, after she had been weighted with her full armament.

The Texas is the first second-class battle-snip in the havy, the nearest approach to her type being the Maine, also built by the Government in Brooklyn, and originally styled a second-class battle-ship, but now officially designated as an armored cruiser.

Built from English designs, subsequently modined, the Texas was launched in 1892, and it was not until August of this year that she was placed in commission, three years having been taken in completing her engines, armor, and armament. It was feared at one time that the vessel would prove, topheavy, but her trip from Norfolk, as well as two or three outside cruises previously made, show, according to her officers, that she has, if anything, an excess of stability, while she is the most easily contolled.

She left Fort Monroe yesterday morning, and came up the coast at a nine-knot speed, under only half-power. Her boilers worked perfectly. She experienced pleasant weather, but there was a good ground-swell at times, and a little freshness, with chopy sea. She steamed along, with scarcely a motion perceptible. She sighted Admiral Bunce's squadron, which is practicing the new system of evolutions off Cape Charies. They were eight miles distant—too far to exchange signals—but the flag-ship New York was seen to be engaged in gun practice.

In appearance, the Texas looks quite unlike any other vessel in the navy. She has the ram bow and taper stern of the Maine and several others, but the lines differ. She is not quite so long as the Maine, and she weighs in course. fighting-tops, but here the resemblance ends. She has only one large funnel, while the Maine has two, of more slen-der proportions. With her broad beam of sixty-four feet, equalling that of the much larger armored cruiser, New York, she has very little superstructure, and this leaves an enomous sweep of clear deck room, and a wide range for her draught of twenty-four feet. Her dis-placement on the load warter-line-not yet accurately determined—will probably be 6.75 tons. The indicated horse-power, as shown in her dock trial, was 8.600, under which, according to her plan, rifies in turrets, echeloned on deck, one forward on the port side and one aft on the starboard; six six-inch guns, and on the starboard; six six-inch guns, and four eighteen-inch Whitehead torpedo tubes. A secondary battery comprises twelve six-pounders, six one-pound rapid-firing guns, and four thirty-seven mm. Hotehkiss revolving cannon.

The belt armor, turrets, and redoubts are of twelve-inch Harveyized steel; the conning tower is nine inches, and the protective deck two inches on the flat and three inches in the slope. She has thirty-two officers and three hundred and fifty-eight men.

DUE-BILL MARRIAGE.

A Young Couple Caught in Hard Circumstances, but Got Off. An interesting marriage occurred at the Nickels House at 12:15 o'clock last night, when Ginnes B. Booher, aged twenty-one, led to the altar Miss Lura, the seventeen-year-old daughter of G. L. Flesnor. The contracting parties reside near Wallace. They had not thought of macrying last night, but knew that they would take advantage of the first opportunity. Incidentally they met at a molasses botting last night, and it was hastily agreed to mount horses and ride to Biountville, where the prospective groom had heard that he could get married for St. Two neighbor men came with them. A Courier representative discovered the pasty making an effort to ride through town unobserved by the police.

They were at once returned to Parson Burroughs' Mecca, and the parson put on his breeches to come down and receive them. the seventeen-year-old daughter of G. L.

on his breeches to come down and re-ceive them.

The groom-to-be had only $2 in pocket, and the license, fees, etc., would cost him not less than $6. There was noth-ing left but to seek the charity of new-found friends. Ginnes stated that he had money at home, but the emergency was such that he had no constrainty to see money at home, but the emergency was such that he had no opportunity to go for it. Parson Burroughs agreed to take a due-bill for the balance, and the remainder of the business was quickly done. They were married and were soon on their way back home. The bride is a very pretty little country girl. She said she loved Ginnes too much to have waited any longer, and that she knew her papa would not consent. She will see her any tonger, and that she knew her papa would not consent. She will see her father to-day and heg his pardon with the love, and kisses of a little daughter who loved and couldn't help it.—Bristol Courier. Courier.

It is doubtful if the county will ever be

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Oct. 22.—A juror's habit of winking may subject this county to the expense of a reirial of an important criminal prosecution.

In the case against Merchant Jacob Drass, who was convicted of defrauding creditors, the defendant moved for a new trial, and one of the reasons is that a juror winked several times at the prosecutor, G. A. Horner, a Baltimore wholesale merchant, during the trial.

The Court held the case under advisement.—Philadelphia Record.

PADEREWSKI HERE AGAIN. The Pianist Arrives on the White Star

Paderewski is in New York again, and music lovers are glad. He arrived yesterday on the White Star steamship Teutonic, and will be heard on the evening of November 4th at Carnegie Music Hall. He appears to be in excellent heath. The musician said he had had a pleasant voyage, and had enjoyed the sea air. He said he looked forward with keen anticipation to greeting his American friends again. At the regular ship's concert Tuesday night Paderewski played five selections, and emerod very heartily into the spirit of the entertainment.

The planist was accompanied by Hugo Goslitz, his private secretary. Immediately after landing, the two were driven to the Windsor Hotel. The voyagers were welcomed at the pier by Charles Steinway, Charles Trethar, N. Stetson, J. C. Fryer, and John Cowdin.

Concerning the opera which Paderewski is known to have been at work on for a considerable length of time, Mr. Goslifs, to whom the newspaper men were referred, said that it was complete, with the avention, of orchestration.

to whom the newspaper men were referred, said that it was complete, with the exception of orchestration. When the present tour is completed and the composer sufficiently rested, it is his intention, Mr. Goslitz said, to immediately resume work on the opera, and not stop until it is finished. Offers to produce it have been received from all the principal theatres of Europe. The music is to be Paderewski's own.

The book from which the opera was taken was written by a friend of Paderewski's, whose name is not divulged. Mr. Goslitz thinks that the production will be a great success, and intimated that the author had high hopes of its winning approval.

will be a great success, and intimated that the author had high hopes of its winning approval.

Paderewski is fresh from the fields of many triumphs. He left here in May, 1883, shortly after the opening of the World's Fair, and went direct to Paris. But his arduous work had told upon him, and he sought rest in the South of France. He remained in retreat until the following autumn, when he emerged from seclusion, and fulfilled an engagement for a tour of England, in which he gave forty concerts. A trip of recreation to Italy followed, after which Paderewski appeared in London. After the close of the season there, work on the opera was taken up. Then came another tour of Great Britain and an incursion into Holland. Visits to Dresden and to Leipsle followed. Dresden people heard the planist's Polish fantasy for the first time. It had been given twice before time. It had been given twice before-once in Aix La Chapelle and once in Nor-wich. The music-loving Saxons became

During the summer of the present year Paderewski, gave one orchestral concert and one recital in London. Since then he has been resting in the South of France, and making preparations for his American four.

His first concert here—the one to be given at Carnegie Music Hall—will have the following programme: Chopin's Fminor concerto, with Richard Burmelster's orchestration; Liszt's E flat concerto, and Paderewski's we Polish fantasy. Following the concert Paderewski will give recitals at the Carnegie Music Hall on November 9th and November 12th. The Itinerary of his tour, so far as has has arranged to visit are Poughkeepsie, Albany, Worcester, Portland, Me., Springfield, Mass., Troy, Hartford, New Haven, Providence, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Cleveland, and Buffal).

The visits will be made in the order named. Buffalo is expected to be reached about Christmas. The musician's appearance there will wind up the first part of his tour. After two weeks' rest he will start on the second part of his trip. Cincinnati will be the first city to be visited; then, in order, Louisville, Indianapolis, Chicago, St. Louis, Nashville, Aadan'a, Memphis, New Orleans, San Diero, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. It is said that the girl declares she is ill used and forced to sleep in a barn and beg for something to eat. of Franz Josef Land, hitherto accepted to be very inaccurate.

It instances the discovery of a sea and islands where the mainland was supposed to be. Markham Sound and the territory to the northward are shown to be totally different from their delineation on previous maps. The mountains mentioned in the accounts of the Austrian expeditions are invisible on the clearest day. The experience of the explorers has proved the ponies taken with them to be of the greatest value. The animals clambered over the loe hammocks with skill and agility, and kept fresh well. Several more ponies will be sent to Franz Josef Land in June, when the Windward returns there.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Japanese Legation does not understand the report that the Japanese troops will be required to evacuate Corea. Japan has not over 5,000 solders in that country, and in the unsettled state of affairs they are needed there to give proper protection to Japanese Interests and prevent uprisings. The Tonghaks, a large body of Corean rebels, revolted a year ago, and it is believed that a repetition of this uprising would occur if the Japanese soldiers were withdrawn. Moreover, there is nothing in the treaty of peace negotiated at Shimonoseki which invalidates Japanes right to keep a sufficient number of soldiers in Corea to protect Japanese Interests.

Mrs. Maggie M. Ellis and little son and daughter who have been on a two weeks' visit to relatives of this city and Henrico county, have returned to their home at Lindsaw. Albemaric county, much benefited by their trip.

FOOT-BALL OR NOTHING.

Harvard Declines to Meet Yale on the Base-Ball Diamond.

A New Haven special to the New York Sun says:

Harvard has declined to meet Yale in base-ball next spring. The official cor-respondence between the two managers was announced in the Yale Allmni Week-ly as follows:

ly as follows:

October 1, 1896.

Manager Harvard Base-Ball Association,
Cambridge, Mass.;
Dear Sir,—Before beginning work on our base-ball schedule for next spring 1 wish to find out from you if the customary dates for the Yale-Harvard ball games namely, during your commencement week wish to find out from you if the customary dates for the Yale-Harvard ball games namely, during your commencement week in Cambridge and during ours in New Haven, will be convenient for you this year. Of course, the final arrangements as to these games and also in regard to a third game in case of a tie need not be made till later. I simply want to know for my convenience whether or not the Harvard-Cornell agreement will in any way interfere with our base-ball game. Hoping that there will be no trouble in completing arrangements, and awaiting an early reply, I remain.

W. S. MILLER, Manager, Y. U. B. B. A. Harvard's reply is as follows:

Cambridge, Mass. Oct. 2, 1886.

Mr. W. S. Miller, President and Manager of the Yale University Base-Ball Association. New Haven. Conn.

Dear Sir, Upon the receipt of your favor of yesterday, I consulted the chalrman of our athletic committee and am authorized to say that if the usual foot-ball game between the two universities is arranged this fall, Harvard will be pleased to make the customary arrangement to meet Yale in base-ball. If the foot-ball game is not arranged, Harvard will feel obliged, with much regret, to give up for some years her athletic contests with Yale.

An Important Copywright Decision, An Important Copywright Becision.

BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 21.—An interesting case, involving the value of a copyright, has just been decided by Judge Colt in the United States Lirouit Court for the district of Massachusetts. The William B. Dana Company are the publishers of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle and of four other publications, issued in connection therewith—namely, the State and City Supplement, the Street Railway Supplement, the Hayestors Supplement, and the Quotation Supplement. Both the Chronicle itself and all its various supplements are copyrighted.

The United States Investor last May also began the publication of a, so-called supplement, modelled after those of the Chronicle, but to be issued in monthly installments. The publishers of the Chronicle brought an action before Judge Colt, charging that nearly all the matter in the installment supplements at the United States Investor had been is an from the Chronicle supplements; that this was an infringement of the Chronicle's copy-even typographical mistakes had been repeated. The case was argued, and came up for final hearing Friday of last week. Judge Colt has now granted the prayer for an injunction. The form of order is understood to be very broad.

The case is considered an important one, because it has been deemed almost impossible heretofore to protect publications like those of the Chronide. The decision just rendered established the fact that a copyright is somether more than an empty form in such instances.
